

Gift Card Programs

Gift card programs can improve your customer loyalty and increase your profits. You can customize your program with standard denominations for every card or varying amounts. Cards hold no cash value until activated at a register, virtually eliminating the threat of theft. This allows cashiers to emphasize your gift card program with cards on hand in front of registers.

When a customer makes purchases using a gift card, the cash value will decrease until they have spent the amount of the card value. You can further customize your gift card program by making gift cards reusable and rechargeable in-store or online.

Consumer surveys show that more than half of all gift card holders will make two or more trips to a store to use up the cash value on their gift cards. More than one in ten customers will not use up the entire value of their gift card. Many customers will use up the value on their card and spend additional money at your store during the same visit.

Graduated Reward - A reward program that lets cardholders save points until they want to cash in. Receipts can be printed with usage to show the cardholder the number of points accrued.

Rebate Program - Rebate programs allow you to offer customers a cash rebate. You can set the rebate at fixed percentage, or you can set the percentage based on time of day or day of week.
